

Language (NLP) Data Engineering Lead

An innovative, well-funded startup at Jvp Cyber Labs in the field of regulatory compliance, is seeking ambitious and analytical students in part time, to join its natural language processing team. Applicants should meet the following criteria or their equivalents:

- Being techy — being a power user of digital tools such as spreadsheet software
- Total mastery of at least two languages, one of which being English
- Quick readers — you read faster than your peers
- Linguistics, anthropology or psychology students a major plus
- Entry-level experience in programming and/or working with linux a plus
- Orderly yet fast to execute personality

The accepted candidates will also gradually benefit from ongoing industrial training in the hot fields of Natural Language Processing and Artificial Intelligence, and work aside a team of experts.

First year's work will emphasize perseverance and striving to meet goals requiring hard work and fine judgement.
